

Cordell Christian Home's
Resident's Digest

by Bonnie Kliewer

The winter weather has been putting on quite a show for us lately. The CCH resident's have been warm and dry through it all, just putting up with a few power outages and feeling glad they haven't been out on the roads.

Unfortunately Area-Wide Bingo in Binger was cancelled because of the weather on Thursday. We have to admit, our Bingo days here are just not the same without our volunteers, who were not able to help us out on Thursday and Friday, wisely staying in out of the weather. Glad they will be back this week!

We've been working on some crafts for Valentine's Day and on Thursday we'll have Art Class to express our creativity.

We appreciate the representatives from the Election Board that come to the facility for those of our residents who want to vote, but are unable to get out on voting days. They will be here this Friday with absentee ballots for us.

Anyone who needs a great place to watch the Super Bowl on Sunday is welcome to join us in the lobby for our Super Bowl Party. We'll be choosing sides, cheering on our teams and chowing down on a variety of snacks and goodies. Hope your team wins! See you soon.
