

Cordell Christian Home's
Resident's
Digest

Greetings once again from the residents and staff of Cordell Christian Home!

We have asked in the past for donations of crosses and other related wall hangings to use in redecorating C Hall, and we received several beautiful items from about a dozen sources. These are now on the walls, thanks to Janis Donley Hall, and look very nice. There is a lot of room for more, though, if anyone else would like to add to the décor. Thank you to all who have taken part in this, and to Janis for helping out with the project.

It's amazing what a variety of decorative crosses were contributed to the collection ~ small, large, made of many different materials, some with Bible verses, some without. But all are equally beautiful and each a symbol of the sacrifice our Savior made for us.

Our activities last week kept everyone busy. From "Pretty Nails" on Monday through "Name That Tune" on Saturday, there's a variety of things going on each day.

On Saturday, after figuring out all the country songs in Name That Tune, we enjoyed hearing a CD shared by Nannie Hines of her son playing his banjo.

There is a new group playing dominoes regularly these days, and there are also card games on most days as well.

Judith Winn held on to the "most bingos" bragging rights for the second week in a row. W.T. Bryan and Norma Moler were close behind though. Jr. Murphy, Edna Mayfield, Rosa Lea Skelley, and Judith Winn were the blackout prize winners. The group was happy to welcome five new players last week, for a total of 24 Bingo-ers.

Remember to check on your neighbors on these hot days, especially if they are elderly or they live alone. We wish you all good health and a cool place to stay out of the heat. See you soon.
